

CONCORDIA REACHES NEW HEIGHTS TO HELP ORPHANED CHILDREN

As part of our Corporate and Social Responsibility Program Concordia were delighted to sponsor Gerard Gabriel to climb the highest point in Africa. Amazingly he managed to scale the summit of Uhuru Peak on Mount Kilimanjaro in Tanzania standing at a magnificent 5,895 metres high (19,341 ft).

Funds raised from the challenge go directly to Amani Childrens' House which is dedicated to the protection of Tanzania's most vulnerable population: street children and AIDS orphans. It is estimated that there are 2.5 million orphaned children in Tanzania.

Since its founding by Tanzania in 2001, Amani has rescued hundreds of children from the perils of life on the streets, where they face a high risk of HIV transmission, malnutrition and abuse.

Amani, which means "peace" in Swahili, provides healthy food, education, counselling and medical care for every child who turns to Amani for help.
